Following the success of the first volume of 'The Lledr Valley in old Photos, Postcards and newspaper Stories' I am in the process of compiling Volume 2

So, once again, I am appealing for any old photos you may have of the village and the valley, maybe family shots that have some feature in the background, or an event in the village.

I am particularly interested to find photos of St Elizabeth's church, or any of the chapels in the village, including the interiors. Were you married, or christened in one of them? Do you have pictures of Christmas Fayres, the Carnival, Jumble Sales or Chapel Teas?

The sooner I can fill another book, the sooner you will be able to read such stories as – The first telephone in the village in 1894, and why it was removed due to the bill not being paid, and the very sad murder in Northampton of a Dolwyddelan girl in 1907. Oh, and the dastardly case of a stolen umbrella resulting in 14 days hard labour!

You will always be credited and thanked profusely for any pictures or stories you supply.
